Sports, Character, and Life...

By Jon Arthur, National Sports Information Director/Contributing Writer to the "ACCA Today"

Tournament play is back in Oklahoma City, and it is back in a great way. The tournament staff here in Oklahoma City puts many hours towards preparing for this championship, but the joy in our jobs comes during these four days every March. As a staff we love to sit and watch the competition, the basketball, but more than that we love to watch the lessons learned by the participants. Sports teach a lot about many things; discipline, hard work, motivation, character, and using the talents you have been given.

I have been involved in hosting the ACCA National Championships for seven years. I could talk to you for hours on the great moments I remember from what teams have accomplished on the court, but there are other memories that outshine those. I have memories of the lessons that have been learned by teams on the court, lessons learned through trials and hardships, and lessons in perseverance and heart. I thoroughly enjoyed watching the game yesterday between Shepherd College and Association Free Lutheran Bible College. AFLBS, who had four players and their head coach in their hotel room beds with the flu, jumped out on the higher seeded Shepherd College early in the game. They played very impressively all the way until the end. Unfortunately, AFLBS could not pull out the victory, as Shepherd learned a lesson on this day as well; a lesson in perseverance. This was a day in which they were playing against a team that was the emotional favorite because of the situation, but in the second half Shepherd responded and came out on top, barely.

Then, I saw the lesson learned by Ozark Christian College's men's team. Down by as many as 20 points in the first half of this game, the Ambassadors learned a lesson in never giving up. They came out in the second half with stifling defense, and cut the deficit to as low as three points. Unfortunately, like AFLBS earlier in the day, Ozark did not have enough gas left in the tank to secure a victory. Each of the teams involved in these games learned valuable lessons that they will be able to use forever.

Those are the things those of us in Oklahoma City will never forget about the ACCA. The lessons we have seen you learn, the lessons we have learned with you, and the joy we have seen you show. Do not ever forget those valuable lessons you have learned about life, about faith, about perseverance and how to always show character. Those are things that will never fail you in your life. Remember what the sixth President of the United States, John Quincy Adams said, "Patience and perseverance have a magical effect before which difficulties disappear and obstacles vanish." No matter how bad things get, always persevere. Always live with passion.

David Terry Award Winners

Jessica Davis of Rhema Bible College:

Jessica has been the captain of the Rhema team for the last two years, she is the team's top defender, hustle leader, and the inspiration of the team. In addition to that, her character is as good as it gets. She is faithful, dependable, and the hardest worker on the team.

Nicolas Kamlade of Multnomah University:

Nick was named to the 2008-2009 ACCA All American Team and has averaged 20.2 points per game over this year. He is a two year captain and has served as a team leader on two basketball mission's trips to Taiwan in his time in college to help run basketball camps for children.

Dinner Eats in OKC...

What: Cattlemen's Steak House
Where: Cow-town, OKC (Ask a local)
Why: Only Oklahoma restaurant to be mentioned in the book "1000 places to visit before you die."
